

ch7_offsite_and_downstream.pdf

Open ▾

Share

FALL 2020

CHAPTER 7*OFFSITE DOWNSTREAMBy: Bradon Rothschild andINTRODUC

This chapter considers the effects of industry relocation on industry results. It discusses the effects of industrial and business types seem prevalent.

- Intentional or planned relocation by governments results in certain business types.
- Market displacement results in reduced competition and location untenable.

Both types of displacement are seen in Transit Oriented Development and trickle-out effects. However, the outcomes of constructing new infrastructure are important to know how to manage.

For the purposes of this course, the effects of displacement are prominent in the Eastern United States.

experience one form of c entail, how they are imple
which may be successful offsite and downstream e
development of the site v